PREFACE

In presenting this, our third directory of Richmond,, we have endeavored to make it as complete and correct as possible, as no expense has been spared to this end.

This directory gives the exact occupation or business of every adult person, as far as it was possible to get this information.

The canvass for names has been thorough as every house and place of business has been visited.

This volume contains about 3,000 names, and as far as possible all names of transients have been eliminated.

A copy of this Directory will be placed in the library of the California Promotion Committee offices in San Francisco and New York.

We wish to expres our sincere thanks for the patronage bestowed upon the work and promise as we publish each succeeding directory of Richmond, we will always do our utmost to bring it to a high standard.

Respectfully,
DIRECTORY PUBLISHING CO
M. Cohen, Manager.

RICHMOND

RICHMOND, known all over the Pacific Coast and through the Middle West and Eastern States as the "Pittsburg of the West," is one of the marvels of this marvelous country bordering on the Pacific. It was founded in the year 1900, and is directly attributable primarily to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad making this point about that time its Pacific Coast terminal. Shortly afterward the Standard Oil Company established its headquarters here and built one of the largest refineries in the world and began business under the name and style of the Pacific Coast Oil Company. Later, however, the name of the concern was changed to the "Standard Oil Company," its rightful appellation.

All of which accounts for the existence of one of the most thrifty and progressive cities on the Coast at this time. We have other manufacturing industries here, it is true, but to these two factors—the Standard Oil Company and the Santa Fe railroad—Richmond owes its present status and being.

No better location for a great city can well be imagined than here. The city is built on the east side of San Francisco bay, directly opposite the Golden Gate, celebrated throughout the entire world for its beauty and grandeur. It is on the continent side, so to speak, and this means that here the two methods of transportation—water and rail—meet, thus insuring cheap rates to the shipper and no loss of time, a point that is not to be lost sight of in this age of rapid transit, when a day or even an hour oftentimes means the loss or gain of many dollars to the manufacturer and shipper.

SUPERB HARBOR FACILITIES.

Richmond has fifteen miles of deep water front, along which at any time large ocean going vessels can moor almost to the very shore and cargoes discharged or taken aboard without the expense of unwieldy and expensive wharf building. This deep water has been maintained since the geodetic surveys were made in these waters. The water is from forty to fifty feet deep a hundred feet from the shore along the entire distance and is amply protected by headlands from the violence of winds and atmospheric disturbances, making it unequaled from a shipping standpoint to any harbor on the Pacific seaboard. Not only is it convenient to water shipping, but two transcontinental railroads, the Southern Pacific and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, skirt the entire distance, making it accessible to all points north, south and east. The location is ideal from the standpoint of commerce, and nature could not be improved upon by any arrangement of land and sea that can be conceived by human ken.
